Is done When serious contest ends, when men unite in opinion and purpose, those who are to change their ways of business joining with those who ask for the change, it is possible to effect it in the way in which prudent and thoughtful and patriotle men would wish to see it brought about with as few, as slight, as easy and simple business readjustments as possible in the circumstances, nothing essential disturbed, nothing torn up by the roots, no parts rent asunder which can be left in wholesome combination. Fortunately, no measures of sweeping or novel change are necessary. It will be understood that our object is not to unsettle business or anywhere seriously to break its established courses athwart. On the contrary we desire the laws we are now about to pass to be the bulwarks and safeguards of industry against the forces that have disturbed it. What we have to do can be done in a new for nearly six weeks.

need for their proper development to meet the rapidly growing reulrements of the country for increas ed and improved facilities of transportation. We cannot postpone action in this matter without leaving the railroads exposed to many serious handicaps and hazards, and the prosperity of the railroads and the prosperity the country are inseparably connec Upon this question those who are chiefly responsible for the actual management and operation of the railroads have spoken very plainly and very earnestly, with a purpose we ought to be quick to accept. It will be one step, and a very important one, toward the necessary separation of the business of production from the business of transportation.

The business of the country awaits also, has long awaited and has suffered because it could not obtain, further and more explicit legislative definition of the policy and meaning of the existing anti-trust law. Nothing hampers business like uncertainty. Nothing daunts or discourages it like the necessity to take chances, to run the risk of falling under the condemnation of the law before it can make sure just what the law is. Surely we are sufficiently familiar with the actual processes and methods of monopoly and of the many hurtful restraints of trade to make definition possible, any rate, up to the limits of what experience has disclosed. These practices, being now abundantly disclosed, can be explicitly and item by item forbleden by statute in such terms as will practically eliminate uncertainty, Such a prohibition win work much the law itself and the penalty being made equally plain. more than a mere negative good by

NEW COMMISSION TO ACT AS A SEARCHLIGHT.

Blearing House of Facts Regarding Big Business Would Help All. And the business men of the country desire something more than that the menace of legal process in these matters be made explicit and intelligible. They desire the advice, the definite guidance and information which can be supplied by an administrative body, an interstate trade commission.

The opinion of the country would instantly approve of such a commission. It would not wish to see it empowered to make terms with monopoly or in any sort to assume control of business, as if the government made itself responsible. It demands such a commission only as an indispensable instrument of information and publicity, as a clearing house for the facts by which both the public mind and the managers of great business undertakings should be guided and as an instrumentality for doing justice to business where the processes of the courts or the natural forces of correction outside the courts are inadequate to adjust the remedy to the wrong in a way that will meet all the equities and circumstances of the case. Producing industries, for example, which have passed the point up to which combination may be consistent with the public interest and the freedoin of trade cannot always be dis- can afford or in any way arbitrarily sected into their component units as to limit the sale of stocks to bona fide readily s ratiroad companies or simi- purchasers. oftentimes involve financial co quences likely to overwhelm the security market and bring upon it breakdown and confusion. There ought to be an administrative commission capable of directing and shaping such corrective processes not only in aid of the courts, but also by independent suggestion if necessary.

DIRECT PUNISHMENT FOR INDIVIDUALS.

But the President Doss Not Specify Terms in Prison.

Inasmuch as our object and the spirit of our action in these matters is to meet business halfway in its process of self correction and disturb its legitimate course as little as possible, we ought to see to it, and the judgment of practical and sagacious men of affairs everywhere would applaud us if we did see to it that penalties and punishment should fall, not upon business itself, to its confusion and interrup tion, but upon the individuals who use the instrumentalities of business to do things which public policy and sound business practice condemn. Every act of business is done at the command or upon the initiative of some ascaptainable person or group of persons. These should be held individually responsible and the punishment should fall upon them, not upon the business organization of which they make file-

It should be one of the main objects of our legislation to divest such per sons of their corporate cleak and deal with them as with those who do not represent their corporations, but merely by deliberate intention break the law. Business men the country through would, I am sure, applaud us if we were to take effectual steps to see that the officers and directors of great bushness bodies were prevented from bringing them and the business of their country into disrepute and danger.

Other questions remain which need very thoughtful and practical treatment. Enterprises in these modern days of great individual fortunes are oftentimes interlocked, not by being under the control of the same directors, but by the fact that the greater part of their corporate stock is owned by a single person or group of persons who are in some way intimately related in interest.

SHOULD CONTROL BY STOCK BE LIMITED?

Suggests Shareholders Be Allowed to Vote in Only One Company.

We are agreed, I take it, that holding companies should be prohibited, but what of the controlling private ownership of individuals or actually co-operative groups of individuals! Shall the private owners of central stock be suffered to be themselves in effect holding companies? We do not wish, I suppose, to forbid the purchase of stocks by any person who pleases to buy them in such quantities as he

Advices from Washington since the president's return from the south indicated the position he was expected to take and were primarily responsible for last week's advance in the market. The message closely paralleled forecasts and traders found in it no new features which they could seize upon as a basis for operations. It was thought that later, when sufficient time elapsed for more careful study of the message and crystallization of sentimessage and crystallization of senti-ment, the effect upon the market might be more pronounced.

At the outset the market was slightly lower, but movements were unus-ually narrow throughout the early session. Following publication of the president's message prices rose for a time, but later traders sold the market on the theory that the effect of the message had been discounted.
